9.00am Welcome from the MC

Toby Stevenson – Director, Sapere Research Group

THE STRATEGIC IMPERATIVE

9.05am Acceleration through transparency

Unilever believes that transparency about carbon footprint will be an accelerator in the global race to zero emissions. Its ambition is to communicate the carbon footprint of every product it sells.

9.15am Leaders' panel – staying the course

It has been a year of massive economic and social disruption due to Covid-19. The March lockdown did provide a positive outcome – a period of forced emissions reduction. Now, with a new government in place, what does a good plan look like to keep everything on target?

Dr Janet Stephenson – Director – Centre for Sustainability, University of Otago

Mike Burrell – Executive Director, Sustainable Business Council

Kiri Hannifin – General Manager Corporate Affairs, Quality, Safety and Sustainability, Countdown

Tom Kelly – Manager Environmental Initiatives, The Warehouse Group

Don Chittock – National Environment & Sustainability Manager, Fulton Hogan (Under invitation)

10.05am Commercialising low-carbon demand

New Zealand's first carbon zero milk, Simply Milk, hit supermarket shelves in July this year. How did Fonterra identify this opportunity and bring the product to market?

Camilla Riddiford – Sustainability Solutions Project Manager, Fonterra

Lara Phillips – Senior Manager Sustainability Solutions, Fonterra

10.35am Break

ENABLING – STRATEGY, REPORTING, FINANCING

10.45am Rethinking your purpose in a circular economy

Successful businesses are adopting integrated strategic thinking to balance financial, sustainability, social and emissions reduction objectives.

Brett Tomkins – Lead Partner – Sustainability, Deloitte

11.15am Stimulating institutional investment

Green initiatives, by their nature, return risk profiles that are often viewed unfavourably by institutional investors. What's the key to de-risking these investments and who can take the lead?

Sean Weaver – CEO & Founder, Ekos

11.35am Comply-or-explain: New climate risk mandatory reporting

The Government's recent (15 September) announcement that TCFD-based climate risk reporting will become mandatory for listed issuers, large banks, fund managers and insurers from 2023 puts New Zealand out in front globally on climate risk disclosure.

Alana Lampitt – Senior Associate (Environmental, Planning and Resource Management), Chapman Tripp

Nicola Swan – Senior Associate (Litigation and Dispute Resolution), Chapman Tripp

12.05pm Sustainable finance roadmap for action

Reviewing the key recommendations and roadmap for action from the finalised (November 2020) Sustainable Finance Forum report.

Vicki Watson – Chief Executive, The Aotearoa Circle

12.25pm Break

12.40pm Roundtables and networking sessions

Facilitated group sessions offering a deep-dive into specific topics including:

- Measurement
- Reporting
- Offsetting
- Implementation

ENERGY TRANSITIONS

1.20pm Examples of successful energy transitions

EECA

TRANSPORTATION

1.50pm Hydrogen for the heavies

With a sound technical and commercial pathway and committed partners, what is required to make hydrogen fuelled heavy transport a reality?

Andrew Clennett – Chief Executive Officer, Hiringa Energy

BUILT ENVIRONMENT

2.20pm The pathway to zero carbon buildings

Insights on reducing emissions for the property and construction industry, the pathway to zero carbon and the strategic decisions made around materials, sustainability and efficiency.

Andrew Eagles – Chief Executive, New Zealand Green Building Council

CASE STUDIES

2.50pm Case studies of emissions reduction initiatives

3.10pm Break

FUTURE FOCUS

3.20pm Chiyoda Corporation's vision for a green hydrogen energy hub in New Zealand

Andrew Tan – President & CEO for Oceania, Chiyoda

3.40pm Procuring the skills necessary for a net-zero future

4.20pm The Carbon Budget – What will it mean for you?

- Where are the opportunities to accelerate the transition to emissions reduction
- Where is the nexus between mitigation and adaptation?

Jo Henty – Chief Executive, Climate Change Commission

4.45pm Wrap-up and close

4.50pm End of the workshop

Tools, targets and real world solutions

2 December 2020 | ONLINE

The workshop will bring together New Zealand's large organisations, emissions-intensive industries, energy consumers, and other key stakeholders to share information for the practical implementation of emission reduction objectives and obligations.

Attendance will consist of boards, senior managers, and decision makers looking for practical advice and leadership into how the transition can be managed and what to do next.
